12 CONCLUSION

Iran an attractive investment location for foreign investors. The most attractive factor for Iran's low cost of production. Also the tax laws attractive for foreign investors. Many of the delegates have chosen to invest in foreign Iran and now the growing demand in the market, Industrial and technical infrastructures, Iran's strategic position in the region across the board. We have no concerns for the safe and legal approaches new investors is used to state that Foreign Investors owning land and other concern for the possibility of immovable property in have Large companies in other countries because of the ease of having land to build a factory for the production of low cost experience As a result, these countries will choose to invest in immovable property. The Iranian government should see that foreign capital will lead to the immovable property in absorbing foreign investment should be based on logic and program. Because our country needs to invest in the construction industry are all options. For example, the construction of luxury and commercial real estate in no very important to us, but it is important for investors because of high interest. That this method is effective for the removal of immovable property if the recession. Foreign investors own funds into domestic banks or with the funds seeks to create value-added non-manufacturing, the housing will come out of recession. Foreign investors should invest its funds in the infrastructure sector housing or if they are involved in the field of housing construction and housing production with new technologies come cheap. Depression may be the best time to enter mass of investors is healthy because it reduces the costs of construction has been a perennial recession. As a result, the problem of aliens in the growth of capital markets in the acquisition of immovable property will be in Iran.
