RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

Denpasar Adolescent Perception toward “ARTI SAHABAT” Television Series

Television series program as one of the television medium is a product of popular culture. “Arti Sahabat” television series aired by Indosiar television station (2010-2011) has formed an opinion and affected television viewers because it spreads mass communication of information and knowledge to the youth. Some teens give their opinions and judgments that “Arti Sahabat” television series is an Indosiar interesting program since it also tells about the lives of teenagers and the current development era. Through the story of teenagers served, they feel comforted and get information about various matters relating to teenage life.

In general, they reasoned that watching “Arti Sahabat” television series is passed for leisure. Some other teenagers confessed fanatics to follow the plot of the story. They do this because “Arti Sahabat” television series addresses the life of youth socially, at school, and an overview of the life of urban youth. Since they are so fanatic they can get mad when his idol artists get problem.

Some Denpasar teens spend their spare time watching television series to show that they exist and become socially imaging in the city adolescent. In accordance with the theory of behaviorism and Bourdieu social practice theories, teenagers were made addicted by the habit of watching “Arti Sahabat” television series, they will find information and if it is necessary to leave or shift the work to be done when the television series is broadcasted. The information was social capital with peers as a topic of talking or chatting and the domains are teenage friends to be practiced or talked or imitated as a form of existence and teenage slang of today.

“Arti Sahabat” teenage television series generally exposes the lifestyle of urban youth. However, some informants consider that lifestyle is displayed in the “Arti Sahabat” teen television series in general is still considered reasonable. This means that the boundaries of social norms and relationships are still considered in the players association. But most of the informants and peer group discussion participants assume that the “Arti Sahabat” television series has featured diverse scenes that have led to a life of luxury, modern, and the relationship between adolescents who tend to be socially permissive because peppered with scenes of romance.

Teens Imitative behavior In Response to “Arti Sahabat” Television Series

According to social cognitive theorists, imitation and identification of behavior is the product of three processes. First observational learning, ie. learning new behaviors easily by looking at the behavior displayed. For example, many people who have never fired a gun but could do so because he has ever seen before. Second inhibitory effects, in this case which saw models, movie character or a good impression that someone could be prosecuted because he was trying to help others. It can reduce a person's desire to help others when encounter a similar situation. Such behavior is constrained by what they had seen before. Third, disinhibitory effects, the behavior is inhibited or eliminated for a while (Stanley. JB, 2004).

Teens of Denpasar have partially adopted the lifestyle of the artist's lifestyle, or idol, including the “Arti Sahabat” television series artist. Denpasar youth lifestyle is an expression of the whole personality of the individual that is in the interaction with the environment and is reflected in the way individuals make use of time and spare, interests owned, and the views on the things going on around the individual, which in turn will affect individual behavior, including consumption choices. As Kotler said (2002:1919), the youth lifestyle concerns value system that they hold as a sub-culture, a certain social class in society, including Denpasar youth lifestyle in the way they speak (language practice), style of dress, and a haircut - as part of their response to watching a teenage “Arti Sahabat” television series shows without being noticed by the audience.

1) Talking Style

Mass culture or popular culture that develop through electronic and print media is very influential on a person's lifestyle choices, such as style of dress, musical taste and style or language speaking of the viewers (Lutvia, 2001:34). According to some informants and peer group discussion participants, in general style of conversation (speaking) in the “Arti Sahabat” teens television series is in accordance with the situation today. The language used in the conversation has the pattern of urban teenage life.

Some informants stated that the language used in the “Arti Sahabat” television series tend to use the lingua franca of young people in Jakarta. Peer group discussion participants also gave examples of that “Arti Sahabat” television series and adolescents generally use the word gne to describe saya (I) and luu to replace the word you, they used bokap/papa to mention the father / papa, and they use nyokap / mama to mention the mother / mama. In addition, to describe the situation of a person who is confronted with problems that made him uncomfortable, they use the phrase
In accordance with the theory of semiotics, that the movement of the body, the scenes, the set and the statement is a sign of a sitcom actress. Language in the media is no longer a tool to describe reality but can specify the image (picture) that will appear in the minds of the audience (Allen, 2011). Imitative behavior in the form of youth speaking style directly and indirectly referenced from television shows, including the “Arti Sahabat” television series. This is in line with the behaviorist theory that knowledge can be formed through stimulus-response and it will be bond stronger when given reinforcement. Reinforcement was divided into positive and negative reinforcement. Positive reinforcement as a stimulus may increase recurrence behavior.

2) Hair Style
According to Sobur (2001), the various groups have the power to control the meaning in the midst of social interaction through the mass media. In addition, fashion taste, speech, lifestyle, in particular hairstyle of “Arti Sahabat” television series actress have hegemonic influence to the behavior of teenage viewers. Hairstyles shown in the “Arti Sahabat” television series are classified as fashionable hairstyle today. Producers seem to choose a hairstyle that looks out of the tradition of school education in general. This is clearly visible on the main characters of “Arti Sahabat” television series: Yudha, which deliberately performed with somewhat longish hair actually less worth in the world of education in high school. Similarly, the lady players, Maya, and sometimes her friends (including Vita and Angel) let their hair loose even in the scene around the school and that is used as a model for today's youth when writers compare them with the 1980, 1990, 2000 teen and so will develop in accordance with its era. Teenage hairstyle trends exhibited in “Arti Sahabat” television series have come out of the grip clothing school children in general. The main character accidentally let Yudha look with long hair, women as well as the players who often appeared with her hair loose despite being in school. Apparently the players ala “Arti Sahabat” television series hairstyle artist also imitated by the youth in Denpasar. Teenage boys who are students deliberately let longish hair because he wanted to follow the example figure of Yudha. Similarly, the girls also have a long hair loose because letting obtain a sample of female players in “Arti Sahabat” television series.

3) Model Apparel (Fashion)
The influence of Western lifestyles displayed by teenage television series, among others, as seen from the way dressed in skimpy dress is considered to be a modern trend, the use of various trinkets made overseas, passion for music trying to be followed by teenagers that should not be considered obsolete. In this case the youth symbolized by his lifestyle to suit today's lifestyle trends in this case, how to dress, how to talk, taste in music or entertainment, and so forth. Viewers of “Arti Sahabat” television series teen group also modeled clothes ala his idol artist. Men teens tend to let open the top part of their collar shirt in their school uniform and the bottom part of the shirt is not inserted into his trousers. Similarly, lady students are reluctant to incorporate their uniform in uniform skirt. Imitating the way the “Arti Sahabat” television series artist dressed is considered as a part of their lifestyle and looks fashionable and trendy. By showing they way they dressed in such away they are able to keep up with the times.

Youth lifestyles among others is characterized by clothes. Here, the style is nothing but a practice of tagging (signifying practice), the style is the arena of creation of meaning (Space, 2005). When associated with Pierre Bourdieu's theory of social practice (1984), adolescent response to patron of “Arti Sahabat” television series is a form of "lifestyle" social practice. Social practices in the form of youth lifestyle behavior are the result of Habitus multiplied by capital then added by domain (Bourdieu, 1984:101). First, the habitus is "mental or cognitive structures" used by actors to face social life. Each actor equipped with a series of schemes or internalized patterns they use to sense, understand, recognize, and assess the social world. Through the patterns that actors produce their actions and grade them. Habitus also reflect the distribution of the objective in the class structure, such as age, gender, and social class groups. Second, the field is a network of relationships between the objective positions in it. The existence of this relationship is separated from the awareness and willingness of individuals. Third, social capital determines the power of a person which includes the economic capital showing economic documents, social capital in the form of social relations that allow one to mobilize for the sake of themselves and the symbolic capital derives from the authority honor, legitimacy and prestige of a person (Fashri, 2007: 98). Knowledge (mental and cognitive structures) owned by adolescents will affect their responses and behaviors associated with the “Arti Sahabat” television series. In accordance with the psychiatric conditions that are relatively unstable, the teen as the “Arti Sahabat” television series viewers in Denpasar tend to do imitation of lifestyle impressions conveyed through television series shows in this case the “Arti Sahabat” television series. Imitative behavior of teenage lifestyle is supported by the "domain", ie social networks (peers) that surrounded him. The existence of artist social behavior idolized and the influence of peers in the social environment are likely to affect the behavior and lifestyle of adolescents of Denpasar. Lifestyle behaviors are displayed in the form of appearance (with long hair, fashionable style artist, how to talk, how to dress, etc.) is the symbolic capital for them. In this regard, the lifestyle offered by television shows has become the capital (symbolic) enhancements for teens to appreciate the behavior and lifestyle of their daily lives.
